OLD FASHIONED CHRISTMAS

BY PAUL ENGLE

(Editor's Note: In the 11th instalment of his story of the "Old Fashioned Christmas," Paul Engle, noted author, lecturer and teacher, continues with "Christmas in the New World.")

Christmas was a great day for General Washington.

At Mount Vernon, in the peace of his own home, Washington had a spirited Christmas, with gifts for all servants and slaves and dancing at night.

In 1795 a certain Theophilus Bradbury writes of Christmas dinner with President Washington in Philadelphia. He was with the "Vice President, the Senators, the Delegates of Massachusetts, and some other members of Congress, about 20 in all. . . . There was an elegant variety of roast beef, veal, turkeys, ducks, hams, fowls, etc.; puddings, jellies, oranges, apples, nuts, almonds, figs, raisins, and a variety of wines and punch. . . . No lady but Mrs. Washington dined with us."

The American South had none of the New England coldness toward Christmas. They celebrated it more in the old English style, gaily, with hunting, drinking and surviving customs out of England. The Yule log was brought in and burned (soaked in water by the servants so that it would burn longer, as they were given as many days holiday as the log lasted). The Yule log was always ignited with a piece of the previous year's log.

Even New England began to lose austerity toward Christmas. By 1845 the city was offering a variety of entertainments. At the Boston Lyceum, you could hear, on the evening of Dec. 25th, Ralph Waldo Emerson lecture on the mystic Swedenborg. At the Melodeon Hall, Handel's "The Messiah" was presented; tickets, 50 cents. At famed Faneuil Hall the National Anti Slavery Bazaar was being held. At the Boston Museum, Cin-

That Ice Skating Season Is Here Again

Truman Accuses Gen. MacArthur--

DOUG DENIES URGING USE OF ATOM BOMB

A New Dispute Flares

New York (UPI) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur Thursday called "completely false" a statement by former President Harry S. Truman that he had advocated use of the atom bomb in the Korean War.

The general also said that the atom bomb was not needed to win the war against Japan in World War II. Truman ordered the A-bomb unleashed against Japan — the first use of nuclear weapons against an enemy in military history.

Truman has said repeatedly that he ordered the atomic bomb used against Japan to save the lives of thousands of military personnel that would have been lost in an actual invasion of Japanese islands.

Blames Washington MacArthur blamed the decision in Washington to make the Communist supply bases across the Yalu River, as well as the river's bridges, a "privileged sanctuary" for this country's failure to win the Korean War—a failure that he said has had "fatal consequences" in the military rise of Communist China.

Truman was quoted as saying that MacArthur wanted to use the A-bomb against both Red China and eastern Russia during the Korean War during a recent television appearance in Chicago. Truman removed MacArthur as commander-in-chief in the Far East in 1951, as U.N. forces neared the Yalu River which separates Red China and Korea.

Says Completely False "Any statement such as that attributed to Mr. Truman that I advocated the use of atomic bombs in the Korean War is completely false," MacArthur said in a statement issued here by an aide.

MacArthur said he was continuing the controversial dispute over the handling of the Korean War with "deep reluctance."

"I do so only to prevent a complete prevarication of history designed to cover up Mr. Truman's past failures," he said.

Firemen Fight Pre-Christmas Blaze

Firemen battle the blaze and smoke at 2225 F that took the merry out of Christmas for Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Goit and their 4 small children. (Star Staff Photo)

Child's Christmas Curiosity Brings Damaging Fire, Homeless Holiday

By Roger Wait

Fire took the merry out of Christmas for the Forrest Goit family Thursday evening as it did extensive damage to their rented home at 2225 F.

The blaze sent dense clouds of white smoke billowing up from the 3-room frame house across the street south of the Lincoln school administration building.

Telephone confusion caused firemen a slight delay in answering the alarm.

Neither Mr. and Mrs. Goit nor their 4 small children and two kittens were injured.

But all the Christmas toys and clothes stored in a closet were destroyed.

The 4 Goit children — Janet, 7; Patricia, 6; Judy, 3, and two-year-old Ronnie — were taken in temporarily by neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Richards of 923 So. 23rd.

Mrs. Goit said her children breathed sighs of relief because their two small white kittens were saved.

The fire started in the closet between the bedroom and bathroom. It spread rapidly upward and shot flames into adjoining rooms.

All the furniture in the bedroom was destroyed. Flame and smoke combined to do extensive damage to the kitchen and the ceiling of the living room.

Fire shot through the attic and burned a sizable hole in the roof.

Asst. Fire Chief Henry Spahn said one of the children admitted lighting a candle at the kitchen stove and taking the candle into the closet to look at Christmas presents.

The brief delay in firemen arriving at the scene was caused because the letters "F" and "S" sound alike over the telephone, Spahn explained.

The first call sent fire trucks from the 23rd and O station toward 2235 S.

Spahn said both the Fire Department operator and the central test board operator at the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co. heard the address as 2235 S.

But subsequent phone calls from Goit's neighbors corrected the alarm address to 2225 F.

Thereupon, Spahn said, two additional trucks were dispatched from the 13th and F fire station.

Firemen worked more than an hour battling the blaze. Late Thursday, firemen returned to the scene to douse smoldering furniture in the yard.

Kennedy Resigns Senate

Palm Beach, Fla. (AP)—President-elect John F. Kennedy resigned his U.S. Senate seat Thursday in the midst of a recruiting campaign for people to man the remaining top posts of his administration.

And a Kennedy spokesman said the President-elect and his choice for secretary of the treasury, Douglas Dillon, are "in complete agreement on a sound fiscal policy which would include a steady rate of economic growth."

Kennedy also discussed aid to education legislation with Rep. Frank Thompson, D-N.J., a member of the House Education and Labor Committee.

Another Kennedy appointment to an administration position probably will be announced Friday. This may be the selection of Dr. Walter Heller, 45-year-old University of Minnesota economist, as chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

All these activities are in preparation for the switch from a Republican to a Democratic regime on Jan. 20.

But the Kennedys also were preparing for Christmas at their spacious Spanish-style home overlooking the Atlantic.

The Christmas tree arrived. The turkey came — from Massachusetts. And the President-elect's father, Joseph P. Kennedy, arrived from New York, with word that his wife would be here Christmas Eve.

Interstate Money Increase Possible

By Virgil Falloon

Acting State Engineer John Hossack said Thursday that Nebraska's allocation of Interstate Highway funds might be $20 million for the 1962 fiscal year.

Under present allocation formulas, Nebraska would get $13 million for fiscal 1962, but Hossack is guessing that an additional $7 million or a "half year of frozen funds" may also be released to the state.

Nebraska under the Interstate's "dollar needs formula" has approximately one year of funds frozen by contract controls, but indications are the state will be brought to current status by fiscal 1963.

Hossack said that fiscal 1962 (ending June 30, 1962) allocations are not known yet, but the state could gain from a half year to a full year in funds now frozen.

Not As High

However, future allocations will not equal the high of $30 million currently available to the state.

Hossack said the highway department will have most of the $30 million for current fiscal year 1961 under contract by June 30, the end of the fiscal year.

It may be one or two months later before the entire amount is under contract but we expect to have virtually all of it obligated by June 30," he said.

Nebraska was allocated $15 million for fiscal 1960 and $30 million for fiscal 1961 under the old federal aid formula.

Formula Switched

Later, the formula was switched to "percentage of dollar needs" and resulted in freezing of some funds by contract controls.

The dollar-need formula, Hossack explained, was adopted so all states would have the same percentage of Interstate Highway, based on it total dollar cost, completed in relation to the other states.

Target date for completion of the nation's 14,000-mile Interstate system is 1973.

Cassner Gets Pen Sentence

Will Serve Year For Gun Assault

Harley E. Cassner Jr. of 2458 Vine was sentenced to one year in the State Penitentiary on an assault with intent to inflict great bodily injury charge by Lancaster District Judge John Polk.

Cassner, 19, had pleaded guilty. He was charged in the Dec. 3 shooting of Darwin L. Bigley, 19, of 841 So. 11th.

Judge Polk, in imposing the prison term, turned down a plea by court-appointed Atty. Farley Young for probation for Cassner.

Victim Paralyzed

Cassner shot Bigley in the neck, and the wound reportedly will leave Bigley permanently paralyzed from the chest down.

Bigley was sitting in a car in front of Pershing Auditorium when Cassner came up and began arguing with a teen-age girl in the rear seat over a whisky bottle that the girl had taken earlier in the evening from Cassner and a friend.

Witnesses said Cassner stuck a pistol in the car window and fired and Bigley slumped over. Cassner later turned himself in at the Police Station.

Forecasters See Warming Trend For Christmas

Forecasters hint at the possibility of an end to Nebraska's cold snap by the holiday weekend and predict slowly warming temperatures for the state Friday.

Highs are expected to reach the high 30s Friday, with the possibility of light snow in the northeast and Panhandle areas Friday night.

Thursday's high for the state was recorded at Sidney at midnight where a 38-degree reading was recorded after the passage of a warm front through the area.

Overnight lows reached to -9 at North Platte and -8 at Scottsbluff. Lincoln recorded a Thursday high of 19 following an overnight low of 5.

Nab Ringleaders

Addis Ababa, Ethiopia (UPI) — Army troops loyal to Emperor Haile Selassie have captured two of the ringleaders in last week's abortive revolt, one of them in a 90-minute gun battle, a government spokesman announced.

The spokesman said Gatachew Bekele, assistant minister of marine affairs, was taken alive in an hour and a half battle that sent troops racing from one end of Addis Ababa to the other. The second ringleader was Capt. Asrat Deferassau of the imperial bodyguard.

28 Men Scooped To Safety From Tanker

Helicopters Do A Valiant Rescue Job

Norfolk, Va. (AP) — Twenty-eight survivors of the broken American tanker Pine Ridge were scooped to safety off the tossing stern section Thursday by helicopters from the carrier Valley Forge.

A 29th man, Chief Engineer John Richard of Wilmington, Del., asked to be left aboard the still floating after-part of the ship which was torn apart by raging seas in Wednesday's gales 100 miles off Cape Hatteras, N.C.

He was carrying out a request of the ship owners by remaining aboard to protect the firm's salvage rights.

8 Are Missing

Eight men were missing and apparently lost. This group, including the master, Capt. Clark Snyder of Philadelphia, and the first, second and third mates, were in the bow section and were thrown into the water when the bow broke away and capsized.

The number of men aboard the 10,400 ton tanker when it steamed out of New York for Corpus Christi, Tex., was reported variously at 35 to 39. Shipping articles mailed on departure to the owners showed definitely there were 37 aboard, the Coast Guard reported.

The Valley Forge sailed from Florida waters in response to word of the Pine Ridge's distress and arrived in position to launch her first helicopter at 6:45 a.m.

Hazardous Operation

One by one a relay of helicopters went through the touchy and hazardous routine—hovering in a fixed position above a weather deck of the tanker's stern and lifting the survivors singly by a dangled sling. The treacherous part, said Lt. (jg) John D. Hausman of Monroe, Mich., one of the pilots, was keeping the rising and falling hulk from hitting the copter.

The waves were still running at 10 feet or more for the first of the helicopter pickoffs and the wind was diminishing. The wind was blowing at about 22 knots in midday in contrast to the 50 to 60-mile gusts that raised 30-foot waves Wednesday and barred any immediate rescue attempts.

Criss-cross air and surface searches of the area failed to show any signs of the missing members of the ship's company.

The Valley Forge's last previous pickup operation was Monday when one of its helicopters fished a missile capsule out of the sea off Grand Bahama Island, down range from Cape Canaveral.

55 Lincoln Cats Get License Tags

At least 55 Lincoln cats will don shiny new tags for Christmas.

According to City Hall officials, 55 cat licenses had been issued by late Thursday, with an anticipated 1,500 to be issued before the delinquent date Mar. 1.

After Jan. 1, 1961, all cats will be required to wear a cat tag to comply with a city ordinance passed recently.

License tags may be obtained for $1.50 at the City Hall, Department of Health, Welfare and Safety.

Bleak Yule Looms For New Orleans Teachers

New Orleans (UPI) — A bleak Christmas loomed Thursday for New Orleans' 3,700 teachers, caught between a federal integration order and a bitter Legislature.

The teachers, and hundreds of other school employees, probably won't get the $1.9 million payroll due them Friday. Legislators claimed they were trying to pay them, but when a Federal Court handed down a sweeping ruling Wednesday, they decided not to.

The Legislature was disgruntled over the ruling, and got even more disgruntled Thursday when a federal marshal invaded its lair to serve notices of the ruling.

Frosty Welcome

Deputy Marshal Dick Smith sauntered into the House of Representatives, which was preparing to quit until Jan. 4, and tried to serve a legislator with the ruling.

The legislator started shouting and other cries went up of "Get him out of here." Smith turned to Acting House Speaker Robert Munson.

"I'd like to say this..." he began.

"You haven't got the right to say anything," Munson barked and had him escorted out.

The U.S. Marshal's office in New Orleans said it would take up the incident with the federal attorney and judges.

Governor Angry

Gov. Jimmie Davis was reportedly angry because the Legislature balked at passing a one-cent sales tax increase that would have brought in $28 million.

He told them he has "never been more determined to continue the fight for the principles of state sovereignty."

Davis said the tax issue "will determine the future of Louisiana." Many legislators balked at voting for the tax because while it is dedicated to setting up grants-in-aid for private schools, experts say such grants would only come to around $400,000. Davis refuses to say what he wants to do with the remaining $27.5 million.

Girls Who Sold Kisses Back At Job

Accrington, England (AP) — Five girls who sold kisses to cotton factory fellows were reinstated in their jobs.

The 5 were suspended this week for embracing the entire shop.

They charged one shilling (14 cents) a kiss and said the proceeds would go to an orphanage to buy Christmas gifts.

The management contended kissing and full production were incompatible, and laid them off. The 150 male operatives instantly went on strike.

After management relented the men said they would go back to work too.

"We're delighted to have won our point," said a striker.

"True the girls were chasing us all over the factory floor, but Christmas comes but once a year."

Chief Justice Earl Warren gave his attractive blonde daughter away in the ceremony performed by the Rev. Ernest Stillwell Heeren, pastor of the First Congregational Church.

Rail Dispute Solution To Be Sought

.. Commission Named

Washington (AP) — Outgoing Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell was chosen Thursday to head a precedent-setting commission in industrial relations. It will try to solve a long-standing dispute over what the railroads call make-work practices by its unions.

President Eisenhower named Mitchell to head the 15-man commission on recommendation of both sides—the railroads and 5 operating brotherhoods, who contend the practices at issue are important to safety.

Eisenhower also appointed 4 members, besides Mitchell, to represent the public while endorsing 5 representatives put forward by each of the disputing interests.

All but one of the commission was on hand for a brief meeting after Eisenhower acted. They arranged a formal organizing session for Jan. 6. Their study will take a year.

In announcing creation of the commission, Eisenhower hailed it as a "major and constructive innovation that will prove to be a significant achievement in the progress of labor-management relations toward greater maturity and stability."

Riot Police Brace For Big Belgium Strike

Brussels, Belgium (AP) — Armed riot police took up positions around parliament and government buildings as a strike against the government's planned austerity program threatened to paralyze Belgium.

The strike rolls rose to about 100,000 as school teachers joined the walkout of miners, dockers, railwaymen and other workers.

In parliament, President Baron Paul Kronacker suspended a session discussing the new program when opposition Socialist deputies continually made noisy interruptions.

The planned legislation calls for a $200 million cut in state expenditures and a rise of nearly $100 million in taxes.

The tax boosts will hit everyone and are the main target of the strikers. But the government says austerity is necessary to help offset losses of revenue from the Congo, which was given its independence this summer.

Truth Plea Is Made By Pope John

Vatican City (AP) — Pope John XXIII gave his annual Christmas message to the world Thursday and coupled with it an impassioned plea for truth in modern life.

The 79-year-old supreme ruler of the Roman Catholic Church urged world leaders to "act honorably in these days of general danger."

And he urged all in the mass media of communication—press, radio, TV and movies—to dedicate themselves to truth. The Pope said that it seemed at times as though there were a "counter-decalogue" to the Ten Commandments.

The pontiff took as the theme of his message—the third at Christmas since his election to St. Peter's throne—from a Biblical quotation by John on Jesus Christ: "We saw His glory, the glory as it were of the only begotten of the Father, full of grace and truth. (John 1:14)."

Russ Parliament Approves Record Peacetime Budget

Moscow (AP) — The Soviet Parliament took about two minutes Thursday to approve a record peacetime budget for 1961, adopted the state economic plan for 1961, then adjourned until Friday.

Foreign Minister Andrei I. Gromyko will take the center of the stage at that time to make an important speech on international policy.

It is expected that Premier Khrushchev also will take the rostrum. But he has played a much less public role at this session than in years past. He showed up for Tuesday morning's opening session but has not been present since.

As expected, deputies of Parliament—the Supreme Soviet—voted without dissent to spend 77,589,829,000 rubles—more than $86 billion by Soviet reckoning—in the new year.

Of this, some 9,255,000,000 new rubles are slated for defense and almost 4 billion for expanded scientific work. Defense spending represents a cut of about 4% and science appropriations represent a rise of 15.6 per cent.

N.Y. AIRLINER CRASH TOLL REACHES 135

New York (UPI) — The death toll in aviation's worst disaster has risen to 135 with the death of a noted Brooklyn dental surgeon.

Reds Concentrating On U.S. Youth

... America Must Not Relax Internal Defenses—Hoover

Washington (AP) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover reported Thursday that the Communist Party in this country is concentrating on America's youth.

Red leaders already have begun issuing a special publication aimed directly at young people, Hoover reported, and are planning to set up a new national youth organization at a meeting in Chicago starting New Year's Eve.

The FBI chief, in a year-end report to Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers, said the Communist Party, U.S.A., remains the largest subversive organization in the United States and said: "During this period of grave international tension, America cannot afford to relax her internal defenses even momentarily. This is true particularly in our dealings with communists—both the 'home-grown' party members and those sent here to represent Iron Curtain countries."

Hoover, who has agreed to continue as FBI director in the new Kennedy administration, reported that FBI investigations this year "disclosed that an alarming number of Soviet and satellite diplomatic personnel have intelligence assignments in this country." He cited espionage charges against two Soviet Embassy secretaries which resulted in their being declared unwelcome last summer, and the arrest of 3 persons who lacked diplomatic immunity on spy charges. One of these was a Russian national employed by the United Nations secretariat.

Under the leadership of the Moscow-trained Gus Hall, Hoover said, the Red party in this country has strengthened its ties with the Soviet Union as well as with communists in Cuba and elsewhere during the past year.

Urban Renewal Meaning

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Opponents to urban renewal for Lincoln have attempted to present the program as some kind of government monster which will swallow up homes, displace residents and deprive people of their rights. This is a twisted and distorted point of view but it prevails, nevertheless, among a certain number of people. Urban renewal is whatever a community wants to make of it and how it is described depends upon one's outlook.

If you are of the opinion that an individual has an unqualified right to live under any circumstances whatsoever and that a landlord can operate any sort of accommodations he pleases then you would be against urban renewal and understanding of the program would never change your mind. This is the position of the most vocal opposition to the program at this time. But before we all decide we are of that opinion the position had better be carefully analyzed. A parallel might be found in many areas of life today. Take, for instance, the matter of driving a car. Few of us subscribe to the theory that because of constitutional rights to own property the driver of an automobile can proceed in such a way as to endanger the lives and property of others.

The fact is that any of the rights of which we speak are matters of relativity. We have personal rights up to a certain point but these rights never permit us to infringe upon the welfare of other citizens. What opponents to urban renewal are talking about is not democracy, but anarchy—the complete absence of government, law and order.

Urban renewal is aimed at the elimination of slums, blighted areas and unproductive and unproductive sections of the city. According to the Federal Works Agency in Washington, slums account nationally for 33 per cent of the population, 45 per cent of the major crime, 55 per cent of the juvenile delinquency, 50 per cent of the arrests, 60 per cent of the tuberculosis victims, 50 per cent of the disease, 35 per cent of the fires, 45 per cent of total city service costs and 6 per cent of the tax revenues.

This is the kind of situation and condition perpetuated by those who oppose urban renewal under the guise of individual freedoms. If the liabilities above constitute freedom then deliver us into the state of bondage. To be sure, these things are not a total economic loss. They are a total loss of human dignity but not a total financial loss. People who own the kind of properties which contribute to this degeneration of society make plenty of money on them.

Taxes, of course, are low on such properties and nothing is devoted to their upkeep. Unfortunately, the people who inhabit such places have no choice but to accept their state of affairs. But to maintain their "freedom" for them do we ignore their plight or try to help them? It would be said that Lincoln does not fit the picture shown by the national standards and this is correct. But Lincoln is heading in that direction and that is only a part of the program.

Urban renewal does not deal only in filth and infestation. Nor is it confined to operations within residential areas. There are some areas of the city which could and should qualify for complete elimination under urban renewal. But there are many more areas which could and should qualify for rehabilitation.

These latter are areas which are at or near the breaking point insofar as their acceptability is concerned. They are, unless changed, the utter slums of tomorrow. They are the potential breeding areas of disease, crime and immorality. It is as ridiculous to permit their fermentation as it is shameful to permit the existence of slums.

Urban renewal, of course, means the taking of property by condemnation but not without compensation and not without a program of individual resettlement. If residential areas are destroyed, the people living there must be provided other suitable living quarters, suitable in terms of physical aspects as well as ability to pay. To be sure, this presents a formidable problem but urban renewal can never be used until the problem is solved. It can never be used until it has been proven to have the support of the citizens of the community. But it definitely will never be used if condemned in advance without understanding and fair consideration.

It is a program whereby any community can muster its resources and, with federal aid, solve many of the social and economic problems of the day and eliminate most of them for the future. It is a safeguarding, not a tearing down, of the human rights of people who are unable to protect themselves against social forces greater than them.

Leslie Brownell Combs found himself in that fortunate position when ordered to go to Iceland without his family in the middle of his Air Force enlistment. Combs' papa happens to be the Leslie Combs who owns all those thoroughbred Kentucky racing horses, including such world-famous nags as Nashua and Jet Pilot. They (the Combses, not the horses) also claim kinship with Kentucky's Gov. Bert Combs.

He agreed in writing to remain on active duty for three years, until April, 1962. However, when Lt. Combs learned that he might be shipped to Iceland without a wife, he promptly applied for discharge as a "hardship case." His alleged "hardship" was interesting. He was urgently needed to help his dad raise thoroughbreds, also to help run the Thoroughbred Horse Insurance agency.

Young Combs stated in his application for discharge that it would cost him $100,000 to stay in the Air Force. Most "hardship cases" go through channels. But suddenly Combs' case received more congressional attention than any relief measure and wrong of colonialism, which itself is a generalization, for colonialism has in some instances been as benevolent and uplifting as in others it has been oppressive and evil. The relationship of the United States with the Philippines and Hawaii must be placed under the general definition of colonialism yet under it the first people were led progressively upward to independence and the second people obtained their desire for statehood.

The essence of the question is whether colonialism is in defiance of the U.N. charter and an impediment to world peace. The first portion is one for judicial treatment; the second portion leads into a labyrinth. The capacity for disturbing the peace is not exclusive in colonialism. Free and independent societies are exceptionally handy at it.

The Asian-African nations would show more maturity of thought were they to judge the U.S. by its record in the treatment of its possessions than to render a verdict based on an ambiguous abstraction.

been adequate, especially in the field of defense. Mr. Nixon made this quite clear, as did Mr. Kennedy, and they only disagreed with each other on where the spending should be emphasized.

There is a great field of illogic in political discussions of budgets, especially balanced budgets. However much revenue is demanded a budget is balanced only when taxes and other applicable forms of revenue are sufficient to cover it. A balanced budget, of itself, is no guarantee of either adequate or economical spending. A proper budget is one that gets the necessary jobs done without incurring deficits.

President Eisenhower was a well intentioned man but his austere budgets not only constricted U.S. defense efforts, they also ran into a good many deficits due to a reluctance to press down more heavily on taxation.

poorly interpreted and badly administered. The code has been the subject of a great deal of controversy between school officials who maintain that conformance to it carries prohibitive costs and the state fire marshal who maintains that he is simply doing the job assigned to him. It is possible that both groups are partly correct and the situation may be straightened out by virtue of the appointment by the fire marshal's advisory committee of a special study group to give the code a new look.

It is the primary responsibility of the fire marshal to maintain as high fire protection standards as is possible and this is what the office has sought to do. But this action must be tempered with the cost of such protection. As school officials noted, the major concern should be the safety of children with protection solely for the buildings a matter of secondary importance. School officials will need to guard, however, against any relaxation which might lead to human disaster in the future.

Another point of importance would seem to be the expressed dissatisfaction with the current status of the fire marshal's office within the State Insurance Department. Such an arrangement smacks of a conflict of interest possibility that should not be permitted to continue. The conflict may be more theoretical or apparent than actual or real but it is an unnecessary and unwanted contribution to an improper public image. In all, there is a wide area of operation here which needs attention.

Hardship Cases Raises Questions

WASHINGTON — If you're a serviceman and don't want to be shipped overseas without your family, our advice is simple: get a rich father with political influence.

Leslie Brownell Combs found himself in that fortunate position when ordered to go to Iceland without his family in the middle of his Air Force enlistment.

Combs' papa happens to be the Leslie Combs who owns all those thoroughbred Kentucky racing horses, including such world-famous nags as Nashua and Jet Pilot. They (the Combses, not the horses) also claim kinship with Kentucky's Gov. Bert Combs.

Leslie Combs II, a product of the University of Virginia ROTC, signed up in the Air Force as a second lieutenant in April, 1959. He agreed in writing to remain on active duty for three years, until April, 1962.

However, when Lt. Combs learned that he might be shipped to Iceland without a wife, he promptly applied for discharge as a "hardship case." His alleged "hardship" was interesting. He was urgently needed to help his dad raise thoroughbreds, also to help run the Thoroughbred Horse Insurance agency.

Young Combs stated in his application for discharge that it would cost him $100,000 to stay in the Air Force.

Most "hardship cases" go through channels. But suddenly Combs' case received more congressional attention than any relief measure since the depressed-areas bill. It was supported by such diverse senators as John Sherman Cooper, Kentucky Republican; Warren Magnuson, Washington Democrat; and Tom Kuchel, California Republican. All joined in expressing their sympathy and concern over Combs' "hardship."

But the strongest letter to the Air Force was written by Kentucky Congressman John Watts, an old family friend.

A confidential note in Combs' Air Force personnel file sums up his situation in these candid words: "He is apparently under orders to go overseas to Iceland or somewhere he can't take his family. His father is a very wealthy, politically potent horse breeder in Kentucky who would like the boy removed from active duty and placed in the inactive reserve. Senators' offices are interested in helping if it is possible."

Rather than buck political pressure, the Air Force hastily removed Lt. Combs from the overseas roster, reviewed his record, then issued him an honorable but premature discharge.

When reached by telephone the 28-year-old Combs was out of the Air Force and comfortably in his father's horse stables. He assured this column he will remain in the Air Force reserve as long as he is physically qualified. He acknowledged that he is now helping his dad with the thoroughbreds.

Californian Is Cabinet Secretary

WASHINGTON—President-elect John Kennedy has adopted one outstanding Eisenhower innovation at the White House despite pointed criticisms of the executive methods of his predecessor. It is appointment of a secretary to the cabinet.

Kennedy's choice for the post is Frederick G. Dutton of California, executive director of the Citizens For Kennedy and Johnson and former executive secretary to Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown. In 1958, Dutton managed the spectacularly successful state campaign from which Brown emerged with a million-plus plurality over his Republican rival for the governorship, former Sen. William F. Knowland.

As a result, national reporters and politicians soon learned the way to Dutton's door. He also appeared here frequently during the pre-convention months as investigator for Brown. It was not an easy task.

The governor had to put together a representative delegation to the convention which would be one of its biggest and would be called on to choose its candidate early in the roll call. California Democrats were noisy and divided; the hopeful candidates were eager and prepared to be ruthless. Kennedy was bent on the first-ballot nomination he managed to achieve.

Kennedy did not make a clean sweep of the California delegation, but the impression made on Robert Kennedy by Dutton was apparent when he was brought here to give the professional touch to the citizens group headed by Byron C. (Whizzer) White of Colorado, who will be Robert's second in command at the Justice Department.

Neither White nor Dutton campaigned with Kennedy. The positions for which they have been chosen suggest that what they did and how they did it made an extremely favorable impression on the brothers Kennedy.

White will probably come in for a great more public attention after January 20. Yet those who find their greatest pleasure and edification in the operations of White House power believe Dutton has the most challenging and interesting job.

For the president-elect purposes to use his cabinet much more than Eisenhower did, possibly much more so than Democrats Truman and Roosevelt did. They will not be given so much free rein to make significant decisions on their own as in the recent past; they will be expected to do much more toward the creation of a national Kennedy policy.

They will be expected also to help the public understand this policy and support it. Cooperation with the party will be on their must list.

Word is being passed that, unlike Eisenhower, Kennedy wants to hold down attendance at Cabinet meetings; in the Eisenhower regime, they frequently included 30 or more big wheels. White House staff members will not be encouraged to crash the gate.

'Little Whimsies' Go Whamsey

By MONA B. PARKER

Lists of do's and don'ts and will's and won'ts and wants are now being compiled by small grubby fingers everywhere and being sent on their way, intercepted enroute by local papers and found to be as chuckful of chuckles as a Christmas pudding is of plums . . .

The Norfolk News was relaying a note from Mariann Miller of Pierce who reminded Santa that "You probably know what I want for Christmas. I told you when I saw you in Hotel Madison, but you might have forgotten." Thereupon, the little miss, believing in a sure thing, enumerated the entire list again . . .

And from Orchard, Gene Van Slyke wrote: "I want a pair of ice skates and a sled."

In case the word 'sled' is troubling you," clarified the News, "it's a thing you use to go sliding on the eiss."

The Dakota County Star had messages from youngsters who have been doing some soul-searching and decided to make a clean breast of it. One reported to Santa that she had been "pretty good," while her little brother had been only "half good."

Columnist Joan Glaser tells in the Greeley Citizen what the youngsters in her family are expecting of old Saint Nick, all the way from popguns to b-b guns (at which their mother shudders) to Boy Scout uniforms. Her girls, she says, are outgrowing dolls rapidly and are now more interested in making things for each other than in compiling impossible lists for themselves . . . "Something is lost when there are 'unbelievers' in the house. But yet, something is gained when they learn, it is fun to plan what to give as well as what they expect to receive."

Miss Peggy Sue Weber of South Sioux City is not a little worried that the good saint will overlook her this year. Therefore, her directions to him are quite explicit. But she's not completely selfishly concerned. She tosses in a plea for canine friend: "I live in a blue and white trailer in Mitchell's Trailer Court. If you can't get down our little chimney, please leave my things at Grandma Goodsell's. She lives in the big white house across from the courthouse. P.S. Rhu-barb, my dog, would like a heater for his house."

John Sanders of the Auburn Press-Tribune thinks a local poll would be interesting determining how many families observe Christmas on the morning of that day and how many gather around the tree the evening before for an exchange and opening of gifts. He knows it's old-fashioned, but he still prefers the observance on Christmas morning. "Anything earlier spoils the excitement and anticipation."

It's the season to be gay, all right, but Jeanne McClanahan is getting glummer by the moment. The Ne-ligh News writer enthusiastically tries the "Little Whimsies" each year—the "little simple things" to make that the most unbrigh-

Mrs. Eleanor Seberger of the Dawson County Herald whipped up batches of fudge and divinity, put them on the porch to cool and went off to town. When she returned, there was a dark patch on a corner of the white divinity. Seems her youngest son had sat on it.

"We've eaten all around the overall prints by now, and I guess the cats will have a sweet treat soon."

The Burwell Tribune is especially delighted with one of its readers and apparently one of its biggest boosters. Mrs. Mattie Donner there came marching into the Tribune office, laid cash on the counter for 11 subscriptions for Christmas gifts.

PHYLLIS BATTELLE

Hollywood Not So Bad—if

NEW YORK — It is considered fashionable, among actors and actresses, to take a strong stand either for or against Hollywood. Either they love it or hate it, for a wild variety of reasons—one of the most fascinating of which was expounded upon today.

"Well, I would have to say you can't compare Hollywood with any town you could think of," said Hollywood's latest young star, "Oh, there might be some place in Greenland or somewhere . . . but you can't compare Hollywood with, like, New York."

"I mean, the kids out there, they aren't real brilliant exactly, but they're sort of masterminds. My first day in school, for instance, nobody knew me. Not at all. So the first thing they ask me is 'did you ever rob a store?' Things like that. When I said no, then they told me how. Real clever schemes too. They were probably just talking — but they know how it's done all right."

There is only wonder — no enmity — on the delightful face of Flip Mark (for that's his actor's name) as he describes his new-found playmates on the west coast. This boy, at the age of just 12, is not only a scant five-one and redhaired and lavished with titian-tinged freckles, he is also a natural, unspoiled comic prodigy. As star of the new ABC-TV comedy series "Guestward Ho!" Flip is now at the stage where he is showered with fan mail and people are beginning to recognize him on the street.

The young Hollywood prodigy, whose real name is Philip Mark Goldberg, grew up on Long Island, was second baseman on a championship little league team, is a 106-score golfer and likes touch football as well as the next president. He decided to go into show business when he was eight and has been so successful that his father sold out a successful furniture business in Manhattan and bought a restaurant in Los Angeles so Flip could continue his career.

So now the Goldbergs and their droll red-haired offspring live on the West Coast. You can be pretty unpopular in Hollywood if you live there and still make unkind remarks about it. But Flip is too young to have lost his integrity.

"Hollywood would be all right, I guess," he explains straightforwardly, "if you could bring all the New Yorkers out there, and ship all the Hollywood people back to New York . . ."

The Total Job

Lincoln, Neb.

State Sen. Ray Simmons is off and running again, with the University of Nebraska as his target. To read his statement one would think he did not want our university professors to:

1. Continue study in their fields so that their teaching will be up to date, their thinking fresh when they give lectures.

2. Counsel with students that hear those lectures, giving them the kind of benefits they cannot get from lectures alone.

3. Study the written work of students, so that they can both judge the students' performances and know what they need to stress more in the lectures and counseling.

4. Assist students in the planning of their studies, selection of courses at registration time, and planning of their careers.

5. Serve on the committees and other planning bodies of the university that give our university direction.

6. Handle the correspondence with students, parents, other professors in their fields (and they do this often with inadequate stenographic help).

7. Do the research that will add to the general body of knowledge, whether it has immediate economic benefits to the state or not.

But whether Ray Simmons wants these other things done or not, some of the rest of us do, and are willing to pay taxes that they shall be done. Just as only a small part of a student's work is attending lectures, so only a small part of a professor's work is delivering those lectures. No self-respecting business would judge an employee on only a small part of his assignment.

ment. In the same way, we cannot judge our professors on their teaching load alone.

Sen. Simmons' implication, if not his statement, is that the professors work only 10 hours a week. Let's not let this kind of shoddy and misleading argument blind us to the valuable work being done outside the classroom by professors at the university.

Clinic Physicians Deny Claims, Ask Damages

Twelve physicians named as defendants in a lawsuit filed Dec. 1 involving the Lincoln Clinic have filed an answer in Lancaster District Court denying allegations made in the suit and asking $500,000 damages from the 4 doctors who filed the action.

The 12 defendants deny that the withdrawal of one doctor in August dissolved the clinic partnership as the plaintiffs had contended. They allege that the doctor in question "retired" from the partnership.

The 12 doctors—Maynard A. Wood, Kenneth T. McGinnis, Bowen E. Taylor, Kenneth J. Fijan, Herbert G. Ahrens, Harold R. Horn, J. William Hervet, John C. Clyne, John W. Bengston, Donald S. Ritter, G. W. LeWorthy and W. J. Jarvis—filed their reply to the suit brought against them by Drs. Maurice D. Frazer, Hiran D. Hilton, Richard N.

Todd and John G. Wiedman. They allege the suit "discredited and damaged the good will" of the partnership and damaged the practice of its members, and that the suit "falsely and maliciously" accuses the 12 defendants of improper conduct. They contend the suit "maliciously slandered some members" of the clinic, which is located at 3145 O.

They ask the court to dismiss the original suit—which claims the 19-doctor partnership at the clinic was dissolved by the Aug. 9 withdrawal of Dr. George Larson and asks the clinic assets be placed in the hands of a receiver—and they ask $500,000 damages against the 4 plaintiff doctors.

They also allege the 4 plaintiffs "have by their acts and conduct" indicated their intention to "retire" from the partnership and they ask the court to declare them "retiring" partners and enjoin them from further use of the clinic building.

The defendants also deny they threatened to take over the clinic's assets for their own use as was claimed in the original petition filed by the plaintiffs.

Articles of incorporation were filed in the Nebraska secretary of state's office Thursday by the Methodist Churches of Stanton and Decatur.

Incorporators of the Stanton church were A. W. Johnson of Columbus, Walter Truex of Norfolk, and J. Frank Bartleson, Leon F. Daniel, D. Dean Dunham, Fred Ball, Elmer L. Zubar, Darrel F. Felt and Leonard O. Mewis, all of Stanton.

Incorporators of the Decatur church were Everett E. Jackman and Richard Lang, both of Omaha, and Nobel B. Blackman, Kenneth Beck, Glen W. Tippery, Lyle Tippery, Marvin Squires, Lyle Farrens and Don L. Worley, all of Decatur.

Both filed articles for nonprofit associations.

Other filings, including amounts of capital stock authorized:

Nemaha Realty, Inc., Falls City; G. W. Schock and D. L. Schock, both of Falls City; $100,000.

The plaintiffs had requested a temporary injunction to halt any distribution of the clinic's assets, but Judge Harry A. Spencer denied this request Dec. 5.

The case is expected to come to trial sometime next year.

Burney Hopes Carter Lake Is Nebraskan

Gov. Dwight Burney said Thursday he hoped the Iowa Legislature would approve establishment of the Nebraska-Iowa boundary in the center of the Missouri River channel, thus giving the town of Carter Lake to Nebraska.

Iowa members of the Iowa-Nebraska Boundary Commission recommended by a 4-2 vote Wednesday that this action be taken.

Nebraska members of the commission had previously made this recommendation.

Gov. Burney said there's no doubt that the Nebraska Legislature would give approval and that Congress would approve such a compact when ratified by both states.

Carter Lake was left on the Nebraska side of the river by the meanderings of the Missouri some years ago, but has remained legally a part of Iowa.

Residents of the town of Carter Lake "want to remain a part of Iowa," according to Mayor Wilson Mabrey, but a majority of the Iowa committee supported the view that the boundary should be realigned with the Missouri channel "for orderly government and orderly development of the Carter Lake area." The Omaha metropolitan area virtually surrounds Carter Lake.

Sandman Lulls Writers; Peasant Sits And Eats

... NO SLEEP FOR 61 YEARS

Editor's Note: Valentin Medina Poves, 61, a peasant who says he has never slept a wink in his life, volunteered to spend 48 wide awake hours in the Madrid UPI bureau to "prove" it. The following story is by the sleepy reporters who are keeping an eye on him.

Madrid (UPI) — The cheerful little peasant who says he never slept in his 61 years neared the end of a 48-hour test of his ever.

But the reporters watching him were getting bleary-eyed and more inclined to believe his claims.

The peasant is Valentin Medina Poves, who says he has total insomnia, always has had it, has been to nearly every doctor in Spain and "will sleep the day I die."

He entered the UPI Madrid office and began his wide-awake test at 8 a.m. Wednesday and will end it at 8 a.m. Friday.

Medina, a nightwatchman at night and a farmer during the day, gained confidence as the end of his test approached.

"Did not you believe it?" he joked. "Okay, now you will realize that I spoke the truth."

Medina, who seemed to be gaining strength as the hours wore on, paced up and down the office and felt strong enough to help some workman move a desk.

At 3 a.m. Thursday he had his usual "supper" consisting of a cheese sandwich and a bottle of wine. "It's very dull here," he commented at one point. "At home in my village of Gineta I have the cows and horses to talk to at night."

As the afternoon wore on, he joked about the reporters' red eyes, munched many sandwiches and drank bottles of red Spanish wine.

Big Appetite

He may not sleep but there's nothing wrong with his appetite — or thirst. "My doctor says wine is good for me," he said.

Dr. Luis Tomas Casamayor, who examined Medina, said, "apparently the man is not lying and he actually doesn't need to sleep." But he added he would reserve final judgment till he could study the case further.

Scottsbluff Man Seeks Freedom From State Pen

Mark Tinsley of Scottsbluff filed a habeas corpus action Thursday in Lancaster District Court in an attempt to gain release from the State Penitentiary.

Tinsley alleges he had ineffective representation at his trial on a charge of possession of burglary tools in Scottsbluff in December, 1959. He also alleges he was improperly convicted because no evidence was introduced to show he had any plans to commit a crime with the tools.

He is serving a 5-year prison term.

Judge Paul White signed an order requiring the Attorney General's office to show cause why Tinsley should not be granted a hearing on his petition.

Love Banishes Gorillas' Ills

New York (AP)—Dr. Deets Picket, who slept on a cot with 3 sick gorillas in his arms, explained Thursday that "they require affection" as well as medicine and oxygen.

The New York Port Authority provided emergency oxygen and child-sized masks Wednesday for the 3 the veterinary biologist slept with as well as for his two other sick gorillas.

All 5 had arrived by airplane from Paris, suffering from pneumonia.

Besides oxygen, Dr. Picket gave the gorillas stimulating injections, intravenous shots of dextrose and antibiotics. He also rubbed their feet.

"And they require affection," he remarked. "When I finally got to sleep at about 5 a.m. there were 3 in my arms. We slept on a cot."

That put 4 of the 5 on the road to recovery.

Dr. Picket said he planned to take all 5 by plane to Kansas City, the sick one in his arms.

Dr. Picket, who lives at Leawood, Kan., is an animal importer. He brought the gorillas from Africa, and the trip has been nothing but trouble.

First it was heat strokes. Dr. Picket started with 8 gorillas but the weather was hotter on the coast of Africa than at the gorillas' home and one died there. Two more died in Paris from after effects of all that heat.

Then came the flight to

All They Needed Was Love

New York, which right now is cold.

While Dr. Picket was being processed at Idlewild airport he and the gorillas were separated. "By the time I got to them," he said, "they were in pretty bad shape. They were in shock. One was moribund but he has recovered. Three were unconscious. They lay still, stiff, with glassy eyes, almost dead."

At that point the port authority came up with its oxygen.

Two of the gorillas are headed for a zoo in Honolulu, one is going to a zoo at Memphis, Tenn., and one to a zoo in Atlanta, Ga.

Rivet Gun Suit Is Appealed To Supreme Court

The widow of a 66-year-old Omaha man who died after working with a pneumatic riveting gun appealed a damage suit to the Nebraska Supreme Court Thursday.

The woman, Libby Hladky, named as defendant the Omaha Body and Equipment Co., Inc., employer of her husband, Anton.

She claimed about $3,500 in doctor, hospital and funeral expenses. The suit was dismissed by the State Workmen's Compensation Court and the Douglas County district court.

Mrs. Hladky's brief said her husband's usual job was grinding corners of truck bodies, but on Nov. 2, 1956, his employer put him to work operating the rivet gun. He became shaky and ill, and complained to his boss, but was told the work would be good for his rheumatism.

Hladky, in an affidavit made before his death on March 21, 1957, said the hammer shakes you from "ears to the toes."

The brief said Hladky was taken to the hospital shortly after operating the hammer, where he died.

Wilson Asks Court Stay Of Execution

An application for a stay of execution and a writ of habeas corpus for Luther Wesley Wilson have been filed in the U.S. District Court.

Lincoln Atty. Hal Bauer filed the application in behalf of Wilson who was convicted on a first degree murder charge in connection with the death of Raymond Rasmussen in Omaha in 1958. His execution is set for Jan. 13, 1961.

The stay of execution application claims that Wilson was denied due process of law under the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. Wilson claims "fairness of trial was fatally infected by the introduction of a great mass of evidence concerning the death of Rasmussen."

Rehearing Denied
A motion for a rehearing was filed in the Supreme Court of Nebraska and denied July 8 of this year, and a petition to the U.S. Supreme Court for a writ of certiorari was denied Nov. 7, 1960.

Bauer states in the application that unless execution is stayed "until final determination of this cause, Wilson is liable to be executed before the Court can pass upon the petition for a writ of habeas corpus and the federal questions involved."

Committee Explores Ways To Expand Lincoln General

Several alternate ways of financing modernization and expansion of Lincoln General Hospital's plant are being explored.

Possibilities include use of city and county tax powers, revenue bonds, assistance by a hospital authority, making the institution a county-affiliated facility, or sale of the older part of the facility to the county for its convalescent unit and the city-county health departments.

A committee of city, county and hospital attorneys, headed by J. Herbert Hopkins, is undertaking a study which may help determine the solution to the capital needs of the 35-year-old hospital.

Other attorney members are Rollin Bailey and William Grossman, representing the county, Henry Holst and Mayor Pat Boyles, representing the city, and Robert Guenzel, past Lincoln General board president.

Legality Studied

The job of the new committee includes investigating the legality of the following proposals:

—Setting up a hospital authority through legislation (which would benefit all Lincoln hospitals). This authority could make a limited mill levy as security for bonds with which capital improvements could be made.

—Establishing Lincoln General as a city-county hospital, a city hospital or a county hospital.

Feeling For Support
Hopkins stated that there is a general feeling that the community which uses the hospital should help support it through some tax provision.

"We must find a way to borrow money or issue revenue bonds if Lincoln General is to keep going ahead. Some relief has to be found," Hopkins said.

Although the hospital has some $1,400,000 in assets in the R. E. Moore and Emily Moore trusts, this capital is available only for hospital maintenance and not for capital expansion by terms of the trust, Hopkins explained.

John Campbell Criticizes Plan On Airport Use

John Campbell has criticized the Lincoln-Lancaster County Regional Plan for its support of a continued joint civilian-Air Force use of Lincoln Air Force Base, with no alternate airport elsewhere. Campbell is a Lincoln business executive and Nebraska Air National Guard brigadier general.

He said that Lincoln's air traffic problem would not be solved by the addition of a second runway at LAFB. He pointed out that the runway would cost as much as an airport for general aviation.

Campbell predicted the city would need two airports by 1975.

Leo Beck Jr., Lincoln Airport Authority chairman, said the Authority feels the plan should consider an alternate site for the future, because one airport will not be adequate.

LAD OF VISION

Rochester, N.Y. (AP)—Donald Andrus, 17, is a person of vision. He walked to school through the snowstorm, with electrically driven wipers clearing the snow from his eye glasses.

The device, powered by a small flashlight battery, clips to the frame of the spectacles. The motor is controlled by a switch attached to the shirt collar.

Donald says he knows his idea is not new. But, he says, "it works."

Blood Given By Inmate Majority

The Red Cross Bloodmobile visited the Nebraska State Reformatory Thursday, and received a total of 188 pints of blood from Reformatory inmates.

Of the total Reformatory population of 285 inmates, 200 volunteered their blood.

The Bloodmobile visited the Reformatory last July, and will return again in April of 1961.

Robt. Newell Given State Building Job

Robert C. Newell of Lincoln Thursday was named superintendent of buildings and grounds by Governor-elect Frank Morrison.

Newell, 49-year-old home builder, will succeed James Delehant, an appointee of the late Gov. Ralph Brooks.

Delehant will be offered another post in the new Democratic administration, Morrison said.

Newell, a leader in the Morrison campaign, has long been active in Democratic politics in Lancaster County.

The superintendent's post is salaried at $6,000 annually.

Newell and his wife, Lillian, live at 4120 Fiene Blvd. They have 3 children—a son in Denver, a daughter attending the University of Nebraska, and another daughter at Lincoln High School.

The appointment marked Morrison's 10th departmental assignment.

WHY your grocer points with pride...

to the ROBERTS name on his milk carton

For obvious reasons, milk may not be fully protected from chemical impurities either through heat or refrigeration. Only laboratory checking and control can assure this safeguard in conformity with new federal law.

Your processor is responsible for this protection. The Roberts name on the carton represents Roberts' acceptance of this responsibility.

That is why your conscientious grocer points with pride to the Roberts name, whether on a premium or economy carton of milk. For he, too, is interested in your well-being.

Kids, You'd Better Be Good-- Belsnickel's Coming To Town

Lancaster, Pa. (AP) — Like everybody else, you doubtless think of Santa Claus as a fellow of infinite mirth, handing out largesse as though there were no tomorrow.

By long and dear tradition, he comes bucketing in on Christmas Eve, stroking his expansive midsection and buckling his knees in sheer delight with the human race and charity for its failings.

Not in many parts of the Pennsylvania country. Here it is not Santa, but the spirit of Belsnickel, transplanted from Middle Europe long ago, that still holds sway in home after home.

It would be easy to dub Belsnickel a killjoy. His very name comes, through a chain of language corruptions, from old German words meaning something of a stinker. So Belsnickel survives in folklore as Santa's sourpuss alter ego.

No Dapper Dan
Belsnickel has many meanings. The gentlest is "St. Nicholas in furs." But Belsnickel being frugal, leaves furs to the big-time spenders and makes do with rough, unprepossessing costumes. This forbidding front also keeps the kids in order.

Belsnickel usually wears a false-face or a mask, more of a Halloween garb than anything resembling a Santa facade. He comes with gifts all right, but only candy, nuts and cookies. These he casts on the floor, and when the children scramble for them he exposes a whip or switch, lashing it over their heads.

Model children may gather the gifts without fear of punishment, whereas those who have misbehaved or failed to memorize their catechism are whacked on the hands or across the back. Belsnickel has his own radar system for separating the goodies from the badies. If this fails he asks questions. It's a doughty child indeed who can hide his mischief or shortcomings from Belsnickel.

Grandma 'Snickel'
Sometimes Grandma plays Belsnickel, dressing in the same way, like a man. She slaps the windows with her switch. Before the kids can muster their wits, Grandma's inside, ready to lay on with zest at the first hint of past naughtiness.

Many parents have made their young toe the mark with this invocation — "Watch out, or Belsnickel will get you." Another ruse is to say that Belsnickel will put coal, not fine presents, in the Christmas stockings.

All in all, Belsnickeling isn't what it used to be. Some say it is dying out altogether, Kris Kringle having ousted the old boy.

All the same, its rigors are still felt over the land. When the Pennsylvania Dutch plain sects, austere even in their most cherished celebrations, keep Christmas Eve Belsnickel is never far away.

SNOW SADDENS SANTA

Santa should be happy, for snow covers Philadelphia. But this disconsolate Santa sits on a snowbank as street clearing goes on. The sign points to a bridge which Santa shouldn't need if his flying reindeer are in shape.

Response Noted For Lincoln Geriatrics Jitney Program

Operation Geriatrics Jitney is underway in Lincoln.

The program, designed to provide residents in Lincoln's 35 nursing homes with a chance to travel out in Lincoln, is co-sponsored by the Nursing Home committee of the United Church Women of Lincoln, and the Lancaster County Mental Health Association.

According to Gwen Mead, chairman of the jitney project, the idea has had some response in Lincoln, but a greater response is expected within the next 10 days.

She added that there were 378 of 728 residents of Lincoln nursing homes who are able to get out into the community, not just at Christmas, but all year around.

"Over 100 patients," she said, "have no friends or relatives living in Lincoln."

In addition to the Geriatrics Jitney program, she said that of the 35 nursing homes:

—16 to 18 could use church services any day of the week.

—15 would like to have phonograph records.

—4 or more could use current magazines or magazine subscriptions.

—8 could use projection equipment and films of travelogues or similar movies.

—13 expressed the need for persons to accompany patients for short walks in nice weather.

—6 could use persons to help patients in letter writing.

—10 could use the services of a bookmobile, or persons who would share books with patients.

She added that anyone interested in this project could contact Mrs. E. E. Thoresen of 3040 Sheridan Blvd.

De Quay Regime Calls It Quits

The Hague (AP) — The Dutch government of Premier Jan Eduard de Quay decided to resign.

The announcement came after two minority coalition elements in the government sided with the opposition supporting a big house building program the cabinet had vetoed.

U.S. Jabs Neutralists For Action

Washington (AP) — The United States chided Prime Minister Nehru of India and other neutralists for condemning both the United States and the Soviet Union alike for arms deliveries to Laos.

The State Department at the same time declared in a statement that continuing Soviet arms shipments to pro-Communist troops in Laos "is a matter of serious concern."

Without mentioning Nehru by name, Press Officer Lincoln White said "we have noted a tendency in some quarters to equate U.S. and Soviet aid to Laos."

"This is a fundamental error," White added.

Nothing New
He said there is nothing new about American economic and military assistance to the royal Laos government. It has been provided since 1955.

"However," White said, "the recent clandestine Soviet airlift of weapons and ammunition to rebel forces which is apparently continuing is a new and sinister factor in the situation."

Nehru told the Indian parliament earlier this week it is regrettable that both East and West have resumed arms deliveries to Laos. The same theme has been struck by other neutralist countries, including Burma and Cambodia.

White said the United States pointed out in a note to the Soviet Union last Saturday that U.S. assistance to the royal Laos army was provided under a long standing agreement and with the approval of the legal government of Laos.

Gates Plans Council Race

He is a former president of the Nebraska Motel Assn. and present Nebraska governor for the National Motel Assn., a Mason, and a member of the Chamber of Commerce and the Cosmopolitan Club. He is 41.

CHRISTMAS COMES 3 TIMES EACH YEAR IN THE HOLY LAND

By George A. Halaby
United Press International

Christmas throughout the world comes only once a year, but in the Holy Land where the King of Peace was born, Christmas comes 3 times.

Within 4 weeks starting December 24 of every year "Gloria in Excelsis Deo" echoes in 3 different languages and 3 different rites, announcing to the world the birth of the infant who came on earth to unite humanity through peace and love.

On December 24 and 25 the Christians of the Western world celebrate the birth of Jesus Christ according to their (Gregorian) calendar. On January 6 and 7 the Orthodox Church echoes "Gloria to God in the Highest. Peace to men of good will." According to their calendar—the Julian—it is December 25. Then comes the third and last ritual of another sect. The Armenians. They celebrate it on January 19, also to them their own December 25.

The scene of this joyful event is a small town perched on top of the Judean hills. Bethlehem with its 75,000 Jordanian inhabitants swells to over 100,000 people on this happy occasion.

Thousands Of Pilgrims

This year like every other year, will see thousands of pilgrims from the 4 corners of the earth jostling each other in the narrow, winding, cobblestone streets of this town, sharing in the religious ceremonies commemorating the birth of the Lord Jesus some 20 centuries ago.

And for one day the frontier between Jordan and Israel will open to admit hundreds of Arab and foreign pilgrims, from Nazareth. Joseph's home, from where he travelled "into Judea, unto the City of David, which is called Bethlehem; (because he was of the House and lineage of David) to be taxed with Mary his espoused wife being great with Child" (Luke 2:4,5).

Some come from India and Persia, following the footsteps of the "three Wise Men from the East" (Matth. 3:10 and many more come from Egypt, the land where Joseph, Mary and Jesus found refuge from Herod.

Festive Mood

The people... Christians and Moslems alike... are in a mood of festivity, celebrating the birth of the Lord Jesus, King of Peace.

While Bethlehem is rejoicing, the official religious procession starts from the old city of Jerusalem.

At noon local time Christmas Eve (4 a.m. CST), the Roman Catholic Patriarch Alberto Gori leaves the walled city in a solemn motorcade toward Bethlehem.

Atop the ridges alongside the road, silhouetted against the blue sky, are troops of the Jordanian and Israeli Armies. They stand a few yards apart on guard on the armistice line separated only by barbed wire.

To Rachel's Tomb

Arriving at the outskirts of the city of Jesus after a 10-mile drive through the Judean hills richly adorned with ageless olive and fruitless olive trees, the motorcade of the prelate halts at Rachel's tomb. On foot, awaiting the arrival of the Patriarch and his entourage are the mayors and dignitaries of Bethlehem and surrounding towns, to escort him into the city.

Meanwhile in Bethlehem, preparations for the reception are afoot.

Hundreds of priests, nuns and choir boys and girls, dressed in their dark tunics and white surplices, are standing in the manger square, in front of the Church of Nativity.

There the patriarch celebrates an afternoon mass and then retires to his chambers in meditation.

Service At Grotto

While he is resting for the high pontifical mass, another service takes place in the grotto, the original site where 20 centuries ago Joseph and Mary took refuge to await the birth of the Founder of Christianity.

It was to this site that the celestial star guided the 3 Wise Men to make their offerings to the Lord of Peace.

Stepping carefully down a narrow flight of steps, worn smooth and slippery by time, a group of priests descends to the grotto for a short service.

At one side, the 14-pointed Star of Bethlehem marks the manger in which the Holy Infant was placed in his swaddling clothes. Across from it is the rocky, ragged-edged creche where Jesus was born.

Protestants Carol

While the Catholics are celebrating this short service in the grotto, the Protestants, under the guidance of the Y.M.C.A., hold a short service and carol singing at shepherd's field. It is a fairly small patch of grassland dotted with olive trees on the outskirts of Bethlehem. According to traditions, this is where the angel appeared to the shepherds and brought them tidings of Christ's birth. Held in the open air, the service and carol singing are conducted in as many languages as there are people from different countries.

At 10 p.m. (2 p.m. CST) the pontifical high mass begins. Flanked by the Knights Templar in their white cloaks with a large crusaders' cross embroidered on the left shoulder, the prelate enters St. Catherine's Chapel and starts the Latin mass.

The ceremony reaches its climax at the stroke of midnight.

As the clock strikes 12, a huge arch behind the large altar is illuminated to display the eternal sentence "Gloria in excelsis Deo," announcing to the world the birth of the savior.

Outside the church, mounted high above one of the domes, a huge star is lighted to announce the happy tidings to the throngs milling in the square. Bells begin to chime, carrying their merry rhythms to many nearby towns and villages.

Image Carried

At 1:15 a.m. (3:30 p.m. CST Christmas Eve), the final procession begins. Carrying an image of the Infant Christ—Il Bambino—in his arms to place symbolically in the grotto, the patriarch leads the procession in a solemn mood, singing ageless beautiful hymns.

Reaching the grotto, the patriarch descends the winding steps alone, still holding the image, places it in the manger, and returns in the same procession to his chambers, thus ending the ecclesiastical pageant.

But the festivities do not end there.

Although the time is around 2 a.m., Bethlehem is ablaze with lights and merriment.

The people joyfully wish each other a Merry Christmas with the Arab traditional greeting of "may you be safe and in good health every year."

OLD FASHIONED CHRISTMAS

derella was being presented for 25 cents.

In 1804 the Lewis and Clark expedition wintered among the Mandan villages on the Missouri River in Dakota country. Clark notes that on Christmas morning he was awakened by guns fired from 3 platoons of men and the French with them. Clark gave them "Taffia," fired 3 cannon, and raised the flag. Some men hunted, some danced.

At the same time, Zebulon M. Pike was near the source of the Mississippi. His journal notes that he "gave out two pounds of extra meat, two pounds of extra flour, one gill of whiskey, and some tobacco per man, in order to distinguish Christmas Day."

Next year, while seeking the source of the Arkansas River in Colorado, Pike and his men almost starved, having only a little buffalo meat without salt, which was eaten, however, with "generall content." Some years later at the same place an explorer was invited to eat with one of the "arrapaho Cheefs. He seat before us a dish of fat meat of Which We Eat plentyfully." The Cheef then announced joyfully that the Christmas dinner had been a dog, a great delicacy with them.

By the middle of the 19th century Christmas was well established on this continent wherever white men had settled. It was very much in its modern form, the use of Santa Claus and the decorated tree having spread widely. In the Southwest and in Catholic Canada there was usually a midnight mass on Christmas Eve. In the one area the local customs were Spanish, and in the other French.

First Tree Salesman
It is likely that the first Christmas tree salesman 1851, in the Catskills, cut down two sled loads of fir and spruce, hauled them to the Hudson River and thence down to New York City. There he rented a strip of sidewalk at the corner of Vesey and Greenwich streets for one dollar. To his delight the project was tremendously successful, but he returned home broke, having spent his fine earnings on cheerful living.

Christmas was celebrated with a great deal more vigor in the new western settlements than in the traditionally reserved New England states. A true account of early Indianapolis relates that there was much dancing, jigs, reels, "punchoon splitters" and "hoedowns."

Civil War Problems

The Civil War brought its own Christmas problems. One of the most remarkable women involved in the War was Phoebe Yates Pember, matron of the Chimborazo Hospital in Richmond, largest on either side.

In 1863 she wrote: "It seemed to me I lived a week during the 24 hours which constituted Christmas. . . . We made 24 gallons of Egg-Nogg inviting all in the whole Division to come and drink and gave to each a good sized cake. At two o'clock having roasted a dozen turkeys and seven gallons of oysters we shared them out and hoped that each man got his share. After all this was accomplished, I had the kitchen table carried into my little room, a personal turkey with all new accompaniments sett out and then sent for the poor outcast Marylanders to come and dine. . . ."

One Confederate soldier sold his $25 watch for $75, noting that "This sufficed for fuel for a month, and a Christmas dinner." By 1863 all food was outrageously expensive, turkeys having gone from $11 to $50, sorghum rum (ugh) for egg-nog going from $30 a gallon to $80. One dinner, a last despairing gesture of cheer in 1864, had a ham worth $300, a turkey $175, with coffee from sweet potatoes. At another Christmas dinner the host remarked sadly, "Our circle was small, but pleasant. The Christmas turkey and ham were not."

An Act of Faith
The vitality and emotional quality of Christmas survived every aspect of the American experience, and often must have given heart to people who were homesick, frightened and cold. Some ate dog; some ate bear, deer, beef, huckleberries.

For all, the strength lay not so much in food as in the animating childlike spirit of the season. For men and women sharing in the birth of a new country, to celebrate the birth of a Child was an act not only of faith but of assurance.

NEXT — Christmas on the Moon. What might it be like some day?

Holiday Food Prices Right For Shoppers

Editor's Note — The following guide to the nation's plentiful food buys for the week ending Dec. 24 was prepared by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and Interior.

Washington (UPI)—Harrassed shoppers these last few days before Christmas should still be able to find a goodly assortment of food buys for the holiday week end.

The detailed report for the midwest area, including Nebraska, shows:

Shoppers will find an abundance of traditional Christmas foods at moderate prices this week. Most stores are offering turkeys at prices about the same or slightly higher than during Thanksgiving week, when turkeys were close to the lowest prices in several years. Many food stores are featuring hams at attractive prices. Frying chickens are getting less advertising, but price tags are very low.

Cranberries, out of the biggest crop in history, continue at the low prices consumers have enjoyed all fall. Navel oranges are holding at rather high prices, but other varieties of oranges are attractively low in price. Grapefruit prices have come down to low levels as supplies have increased and quality has improved. Midwestern apples of several varieties are moderately priced. Red grapes represent better values than white or blue varieties.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

The most amazing thing about Christmas is where all the time goes. It seems only yesterday that the little box in the newspaper said "15 shopping days until."

I think the newspapers do something sly with this box.

One day it is "15 more shopping days until..."

The very next day it is "Last day to shop before..."

Somebody is not adding very well.

Well, off to the stores this cheery day. Gad, but they are crowded! What in the world is the matter with people? You would think they could get their shopping done early. But no. Not until the last possible—

"Pardon me, madam. I DID have my hands on that necktie. No, I was NOT just fingering it. I was picking it up to buy. There are dozens of other ties for you to purchase. This one is mine. Hmmm, yourself."

Things are pretty well picked over.

"Excuse me, miss. How much is that plastic can opener? WHAT? For a little piece of plastic? That's outrageous!"

How do they get these prices? Let me ask you that. I should really wait until the January sales.

"Could somebody help me, please? I've been here nearly an—"

"May I say, sir, that I was only TESTING the electric shoeshine kit. I was definitely NOT trying to get a free shine. I was examining this gadget with an eye to purchasing—"

A salesman like that is a detriment to a great establishment.

These shoes do NOT look bad, at all, at all. In fact, they polished up very well. I hope somebody gives me one of those things.

"If you will give me a moment to explain, madam! Please! I did not deliberately snag you with a fishhook. I was testing this casting rod and the hook happened to—"

"If you will hold still, madam, and turn around I will disengage—"

"What do you mean, fiend?"

"My dear lady, would it be asking too much to get that umbrella out of my solar plexus? Thank you. I realize it is crowded in here, madam. But I do not think you should sheathe two feet of umbrella in my viscera. Why didn't you start your shopping a week or two ago?"

A toy train like this is a joy to watch. These must be the switches to make them run. Maybe backwards.

"A fuse? My good man, do you realize what you are saying? Who blew a fuse? I was standing here admiring this excellent train—even thinking of putting out a bundle to purchase it. And I touched the switch."

"Well, if these things are THAT delicate, I wouldn't want one around anyway. What kind of train is that if it blows a fuse?"

"Steady there, my good fellow. It was an accident, I assure you. I was simply looking at the dish display and tried to get one from underneath."

Now, sir, please. I can't stand to see a grown man cry. Here, take this handkerchief. A rich friend of mine is giving me more for Christmas—"

Sheldon Bid Letting Extended

Bid letting on the new $2.5 million Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery at the University of Nebraska will be extended two weeks until Jan. 5, according to Verner Meyers, director of the Division of Planning and Construction.

Meyers said several contractors had asked for more than the usual time to make bids because of the unusualness and complexity of the building.

The unique structure is to be built of Roman Travertine marble, quarried in Italy and the oldest building material known to man.

Funds for the Galleries were the gift of the estates of the late Frances Sheldon of Lincoln and her brother, the late A. B. Sheldon of Lexington.

The structure's architecture is the creation of Philip Johnson of New York City.

Tokyo rivals Venice as a city of canals. The Japanese capital has 1,300 miles of canals and 5,284 bridges.

Oil Interests In Venezuela Face Nationalization Moves

Foreign oil interests face the specter of nationalization in Venezuela within the next decade.

So says John Whitlock, process engineer at a subsidiary of an American oil company, located in Judibana, Venezuela.

Whitlock, a 1953 graduate of the University of Nebraska is visiting at the home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Whitlock of Lincoln.

He and his family have lived in the Standard Oil Company town of Judibana since 1956.

He said recent street fighting in Caracas has not affected Judibana, as it is located 300 miles west of there, in the Paraguana Peninsula.

He added, however, that the Communists are organizing in Venezuela, and that most of the people living there are pro-Castro.

The Whitlocks have 4 children, and the two oldest, Ned, 7, and 6-year-old Nora attend a company school staffed by American and Venezuelan teachers. He added that the curriculum is half Spanish and half English.

The two other children are Hallie, 4, and 6-month old Sharla.

The Whitlocks will return to Venezuela in January.

Plans June Wedding

MISS KARILYN LODWIG

Announcement is being made this morning of the betrothal of Miss Karilyn Lodwig to Daniel Luchsing, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis W. Luchsing of Pasadena, Calif., by the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Eunice Lodwig.

The wedding will be an event of June. Miss Lodwig attended the University of Nebraska and is a member of Towne Club. Mr. Luchsing, who attended Pasadena City College and the University of Nebraska, is now stationed with the Army in Chicago.

BRIDES

Making announcement of her bridal party this morning is Miss Phyllis Yoes, who will become the bride of John Glynn, Jr., on Tuesday, Dec. 27. The 11 o'clock ceremony will be solemnized at St. Thomas Aquinas Chapel.

For her honor attendant, Miss Yoes has chosen her fiancé's sister, Miss Kathryn Glynn. Mrs. Dale Swanson of Omaha will be the bridesmatron, and Miss Jane Lyman of Omaha, the bridesmaid.

Serving Mr. Glynn as best man will be Ken Freed, and seating the guests will be

Tom Neff and James Harpstreith of Chicago, William Hoepfner and Patrick A. Drake.

Aids Project

Alpha Rho Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, has completed its current service project with the purchase of articles of equipment for a local hospital.

The funds were raised by the chapter's ways and means projects which included rummage and bake sales. Mrs. Erwin Lang is the chapter's service project chairman.

The News Around Town

This is more-of-everything morning—More news of the school set—and more parties. There also is a brief preview of New Year's Eve and we'll get around to that later—maybe.

Right now it is a merry holiday season for the young crowd—at least that portion of it that is home from college—We understand that the festivities began on Wednesday when Miss Jo Brown, home from Christian College, Columbia, Mo., entertained at luncheon at the University Club. The guest list included 12 of her former classmates.

—On the calendar for next Thursday evening is the Chinese supper for which Miss Judy Schorr will be hostess at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Schorr, Jr. Miss Schorr, who is home from Scripps College, Claremont, Calif., has invited 30 guests and the group will include former classmates at Southeast. —And speaking of the home-from-college group—We hear that Miss Jill Cole, a freshman at Smith College, arrived for the holiday recess last Tuesday, and is the guest of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Frank Cole.

Also on the list of home-comers are Miss Margie Ebel who came from the University of Wisconsin to spend the holidays with her family—Mr. and Mrs. A. James Ebel; Miss Artie Gibson, home from the University of Arizona; Miss Gretchen Groth—home from the University of Michigan; Miss Cindy Haynie, who attends the University of Iowa; Miss Pat Heumann, a freshman at Stephens College; Miss Marjorie Martin, home from the University of Kansas; Miss Sandy Murray, a freshman at the University of Colorado—Miss Ginny Pansing, back in Lincoln from Mills College—and since we've about run out of time, we'll continue the list another day.

A Pre-Holiday Bride

MRS. JEFFRE CHEVRONT

Pyramid trees of poinsettias and cathedral candles arranged against a screen of Christmas pine formed the background for the wedding of Miss Margaret Gardner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gardner, and Jeffre Chevront, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vinton Chevront, which took place on Thursday evening, Dec. 22, at the Church of the Holy Trinity, Episcopal. The Rev. William Cross solemnized the 8 o'clock ceremony.

Peau de soie, in a meadow green tone, was chosen for the bride's gown. The bride wore the gown of white tulle and tulle, and the ushers included Edward Fullbrook, Roy Churchill, Larry Myers and Thomas Sloan.

The bride appeared in a gown of white tulle. Designed with bracelet-length

Afternoon Wedding

MRS. JOHN ALLWORTH ALBERS

The chancel of the First Methodist Church in Broken Bow was appointed with arrangements of white gladioli and white chrysanthemums, and the Gothic windows screened with greenery and white poinsettia for the wedding of Miss Marilyn Jean Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Niles N. Lee of Broken Bow, and John Allworth Albers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto A. Albers of Wisner, which took place on Thursday afternoon, Dec. 22. The Rev. Frank H. Kirtley read the lines of the 4 o'clock service.

Miss Carolyn Jane Lee, her twin sister's maid of honor, and bridesmatron, Mrs. John Frederick Mesmer of Wisner, sister of the bridegroom, wore alike costumes of emerald green faille.

Herbert Albers, Jr., of Wisner served as best man, and seating the guests were Frederick Mesmer of Wisner; Robert French Ross of Bellevue, and J. Thomas Rosch of Omaha.

White satin fashioned the gown chosen by the bride. The long-sleeved bodice was designed with a sabbra neckline cuffed with satin above an inset of Brussels lace applique on tulle and inverted pleats gave added bouffancy to the voluminous skirt which was completed with a cotillion train. A crown of pearls held to the head her mantilla of Brussels lace, and she carried a bouquet of white orchids and lilies-of-the-valley.

After a honeymoon trip to Las Vegas, Nev., and through the southern states, Mr. Albers and his bride will return to Lincoln where they will reside at 1936 So. 17th St.

The bride was graduated from Brownell Hall, Omaha, attended Mills College, Oakland, Calif., and is a senior at the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. She served as a countess in the 1960 Court of Ak-Sar-Ben. Mr. Albers also is attending the University of Nebraska and is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

Red Cross Yule Party

A group of 30 children from Whitehall were the guests last Saturday afternoon when the Red Cross college unit of the University of Nebraska entertained at a Christmas party.

The affair, held at the Red Cross headquarters, was highlighted by games and refreshments.

Dear Abby-- Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am engaged to a man with whom I have gone for two years. We aren't kids. I am 28 and he is 36. (This will be the second marriage for both of us.)

We like the same things and he is very easy to get along with. One thing worries me. He loves to eat and I have never learned how to cook. (I am a dental hygienist.)

I think I should enrol in a night cooking class, but my friends say that I am placing too much importance on cooking—for a modern woman. Just how important is cooking to a marriage? We both intend to work.

NO COOK
DEAR NO COOK: It is very important—especially if the man "loves to eat." Better find out how he likes his goose lest you cook it at the altar.

DEAR ABBY: I have a neighbor who bought a paddle to use on her kids when ever they say "ya" instead of "yes." She said she's used it so many times the paddle has already paid for itself. You can hear kids crying over there all day. I personally don't believe in hitting kids with anything except the bare open hand. I would like your ideas on the subject.

A NEIGHBOR
DEAR NEIGHBOR: I don't approve of hitting children, period. Evidently your neighbor's method of teaching her children to say "yes" instead of "ya" has not been successful. If it were, she wouldn't find it necessary to paddle a child a hundred times for saying "ya." No?

DEAR ABBY: My daughter, who is 18, has a disturbing fault. She talks so loud at times I could run away from her. When I tell her to quit yelling, she gets mad at me. She is very pretty and usually good-natured. She talks so loud when we go shopping together that the clerks look at her in amazement. She yells when she is talking to someone two feet away from her. Neighbors have told me that they can hear every word she says when we are home. Is there any hope for her?

BROKEN EARDRUMS
DEAR BROKEN: Have you ever considered having your daughter's hearing tested? Many people are unaware of their shouting because they are hard of hearing. If this is not the case, make up a silent signal (like touching your ear, inconspicuously) to remind her in the presence of others to "soften" her voice. Children will respond to this type of "reminder" while a public reprimand only humiliates them.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BERTHA, SALLY AND ROSALIE: If you want male companionship in Miami this winter, better bring your own.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "TRYING TO FORGET": Get rid of the letters, pictures and all the little "reminders." The romance is dead, dead, dead!

BRIDGE

By B. Jay Becker

QUIZ

You are South, neither side vulnerable. The bidding has been:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	?	?

What would you now bid with each of the following five hands?

1. ♠AK ♥KQ853 ♦86 ♣Q962
2. ♠973 ♥AQ74 ♦KQ10 ♣AJ6
3. ♠K7 ♥QJ9852 ♦QJ4 ♣A5
4. ♠J82 ♥AJ965 ♦9843 ♣7
5. ♠QJ64 ♥AQ752 ♦K3 ♣K8

1. Three clubs. An opening bid facing an opening bid means game. Obviously, a game must be reached with this hand, but we are not in position at the moment to know where the best game contract is likely to lie.

The three club bid (forcing) tells partner we have the values for an opening bid, that a club fit exists, and that a game contract is feasible in clubs, hearts, or notrump, depending upon his hand.

2. Three notrump. This bid shows balanced distribution and 16 or 17 high-card points. It therefore constitutes a mild form of slam try. A jump to two notrump would show 13 to 15 points and no interest in a slam.

3. Three hearts. While the hand is satisfactory for notrump play if partner has the appropriate values, the main effort should be directed towards reaching a game in hearts. If North is unable to raise the suit and bids three notrump, the plan is to pass. In that event, our 13 high-card points, well distributed in all suits, should make three notrump the best contract. The three heart bid is forcing.

4. Pass. The chance of a game is remote and the only problem is to find the best part-score contract. While there might be a better spot than one spade, it is hardly worth climbing up the ladder in search of it. Partner might take any further bid seriously, and there is no reason to run this risk.

It should be noted that the change of suits by the opening bidder does not force the responder to bid again. The forcing principle applies only when responder names a new suit.

5. Four spades. A raise to two spades in this sequence ordinarily shows 9 or 10 points. A raise to three spades would show a hand of roughly 14 points. The jump to four spades, since it is a stronger bid than three spades, shows interest about 16 or 17 points. In all these cases, the distributional values are counted in addition to the high-card values.

The sequence given is different from the case where dealer opens with one spade and responder jumps to four spades. This is a shutout bid used to show long trumps and few high cards.

ASK— Dorothy Draper

In spite of all the turmoil going on in the world today it's really a wonderful age we live in! Every day someone has dreamed up something new to make life easier and more efficient.

Have you heard about the new shingles that have a baked-on plastic finish and are stain and weather resistant? The exciting part of this is that they have a non-porous exterior and can be scrubbed with soap, then rinsed off with a hose.

Unless you have a house in the country you won't appreciate this, but birds will be birds, and even certain trees drop seeds and particles on the roof and leave a stain. A good washdown once a year would make the whole house seem to glisten. Anyway, I like the idea of scrubbing down a roof.

Another small item I like is the new horizontal stripe wallpaper. This makes any high narrow room seem to bulge out its sides in an expansive mood. And furniture whether traditional or contemporary looks well with it. Fine background for pictures too.

Don't buy the first thing you come to... shop around the "what's new" departments before you decide. There are wonderful things coming up all the time!

Mrs. M.G. asks:
"We are going to paint our kitchen and would like the ceiling to be white and the walls red. Do you think this will be all right? For the floor covering what color would you suggest? Most of my friends think these colors are wrong or too bright."

Dear Mrs. M.G.:
Red walls, white ceiling! I think that sounds very cheerful for a kitchen. I'd like a black and white vinyl floor covering. Evidently it's time your friends were introduced to a rainbow—to get away from their grays and tans. Don't listen to them—bring on the red paint!

Mrs. S.H. asks:
"Could I use an old sea chest in a bedroom?"
Dear Mrs. S.H.:
Yes, put it at the foot of your bed for pulling on shoes, as well as extra storage space. It makes a good luggage stand for a guest room.

T. M. asks:
"Would you give me a suggestion as to what color walls and drapes and spread to use with a very lovely old fashioned spindle type bed that belongs to a cherry wood bedroom set. At the moment I have aqua walls and rose patterned chintz spread and drapes with pink scatter rugs."

Dear T. M.:
As a complete change why don't you have: walls, white-egg; draperies, white background chintz with big purple and deep blue flowers with green leaves; white early American coverlet with dust ruffle the same as the draperies, with a lovely bright jewel-green rug. Then pile a dish with yellow lemons, a red apple and a bunch of green grapes and see what a happy transformation you have created.

Cold Hurts Dutchman? 'Ridiculous' Says Norm

VET QB SET FOR FIFTH TITLE GAME

Philadelphia (AP) — Quarterback Norm Van Brocklin says stories he can't throw in cold weather or in snow or rain are a "crock of beans."

"I don't know where these stories got started," says the star passer of the Philadelphia Eagles, "but they're ridiculous."

Van Brocklin, whose sensational passing played a major role in the Eagles' drive to the National Football League's Eastern title, commented:

"Naturally, it is more difficult to throw in the cold, rain and snow. All passers have trouble gripping the ball. But I don't have any more or any less difficulty than the next guy."

The 34-year-old Dutchman from out Oregon way, has had a few bad afternoons in inclement weather which probably started the theory that he wasn't a mudder. He may have a chance to mute these mutterings next Monday in the National Football League championship game against the Green Bay Packers. The long range forecast is for sub-freezing weather and possibly snow.

5th Title Game
The pressure of a title game is nothing new to Van Brocklin. He's been in 4 of them with the Los Angeles Rams, winning once, in 1951, and losing 3 times. Asked about his approach to such a game, he asserted:

"It should be played like every other game, although I know that the pressure is built up by the money involved and the prestige of being champion. It requires a maximum effort. Usually, both teams are geared emotionally, so that the one which makes the big mistake loses."

He pointed out that Green Bay, the Western Division champions, is similar to the Cleveland Browns in that it has good balance between running passing. "They usually don't make that big mistake," he said. "You have to beat the Packers. They don't beat themselves."

Coach Buck Shaw makes no bones about the Eagles standing or falling on the arm that completed 153 of 284 passes for 2,471 yards and 24 touchdowns during the regular season.

Hay In The Barn
"The hay is pretty well in the barn," said Shaw. "We've come this far with Van. He'll have to take us the rest of the way."

Van Brocklin says he doesn't care whether the Green Bay defense blitzes him or not.

"I'll be prepared either way," he said with the assurance of a 12-year veteran. "We find out what they're going to do and then we go to work."

SWC Blanks SEC Cagers In Tourney

Little Rock, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas used scoring balance and accuracy to beat Tennessee 89-76 Thursday night and Texas relied on the jumpshot artistry of Al Almanza and Donnie Laster to beat Alabama 79-78, winding up the first Aluminum Bowl basketball classic.

The victories completed a 4-game meet sweep for the Southwest Conference over their Southeastern Conference rivals in the non-tournament event. Last night Arkansas beat Alabama and Texas beat Tennessee.

The Longhorns and the Razorbacks are ranked at the top of the SWC class for the upcoming conference race. After unimpressive showings in the first round, they zeroed in, Arkansas hitting 54 per cent of its field goal attempts and Texas 49 per cent.

Arkansas' 5 starters each scored 14 points or more, with 6-6 Alan Morrison leading with 21. Sophomore Tommy Boyer hit 17. Tennessee led 50-49 at halftime but the Razorbacks took over early in the second half and coasted to their 6th victory in 8 games.

Eddie Test and Glen Campbell led Tennessee with 17 points each.

Texas had more trouble with Alabama. Almanza and Laster each scored 21 points but the Longhorns had to put on a stall at the end to fend off an Alabama surge.

Culver-Stockton Brings Vet Coach, Fancy Dress

Veteran Coach Bill Herington's Culver-Stockton Wildcats bring a 3-3 record to the Wesleyan Holiday basketball tourney opening Thursday, December 29 at Pershing Auditorium.

Just 3 points separates the Wildcats' 500 record to date from a 5-1 mark, however. Herington, head coach since 1938 at Culver-Stockton since 1938, led the Wildcats to a sterling 18-7 mark and the Missouri College Athletic Union championship last season.

"We've got just two regulars back from that club but we expect a lot from our younger players before the season is too far along," Herington said Thursday. "We play control ball with the slow break but will fast break when the opportunity comes," Herington added.

Culver-Stockton's outstanding performer thus far has been 6-5 Center Frank Long who hails from Winchester, Illinois. Long one of two seniors, is averaging 23.5 points per game in the first six Wildcat starts but was redhot in the opener when he scored 34 points in a 70-71 loss to Carthage College. Only other senior regular is returning guard vet Gary Mayes, a 5-9 speed demon from Monroe City, Missouri. Culver-Stockton's regular season schedule is perhaps the most aggressive of any team entered in the 4-club Holiday tourney in Lincoln. Coach Herington's gang makes an annual trip to the deep south and in recent years has included Miami University of Florida on its schedule.

From these jaunts South the label "Squirrel Cage Offense" has been attached to the Herington led teams.

The long-time Culver-Stockton mentor, who also serves as Athletic Director, calls his squad the "best dressed team in the United States of America."

The Culver-Stockton sweat suits, designed personally by Coach Herington, are among the most expensive in the history of the sport and have been much copied in the NAIA and elsewhere. "A good appearance is just as important a part of the game as being able to play well," Herington stated.

Shaw has indicated that if Green Bay blitzes he'll send in his veteran fullback, Clarence Peaks, for pass protection duty. Peaks has been out for 6 weeks with a broken ankle, but apparently it has mended and he'll be available for spot duty. Shaw says Peaks can absorb the crashing of charging linebackers better than any blocker he has.

Oklahoma Rally Tops Texas Tech

Norman, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma finally shook loose from tenacious Texas Tech in the last half Thursday night to win a non-conference basketball game 75-56.

The visiting Red Raiders led at the half but ran into a scoring drought in the second half. They scored only 13 points.

The first half was close with the lead changing hands 9 times and the score knotted on 6 other occasions. Tech led 43-40 at intermission but George Kernek put Oklahoma ahead to stay with 3½ minutes played in the second half, 46-44, and the Sooners rolled on to their 7th victory against one defeat. The Raiders are 2-5.

Warren Fouts of Oklahoma hit 11 of 13 field goals plus two free throws for a game leading total of 24 points. Mac Percival led Tech with 19 points, 16 in the first half.

BUCKEYES BEAT DETROIT AS LUCAS PUMPS IN 30

Columbus, Ohio (AP) — All-America Jerry Lucas received solid scoring support from two outside shooters plus a big defensive hand from John Havlicek as top-ranked Ohio State won its 6th straight basketball game 84-73 over rugged Detroit Thursday night.

Lucas scored an individual season high of 30 points. Mel Nowell backed him with 18 and Larry Sigfried with 16, both shooting an assortment of jump shots and drives. Meanwhile, Detroit ace Dave DeBusschere was limited to 14 points by Buckeye defensive whiz Havlicek. Ten of the 14 came in the first 10 minutes of play as Detroit took a 7-point lead, 27-20.

The Titans were leading by 8 later in the first half when Ohio State went on a 14-point rampage to grab a 40-34 advantage. The Buckeyes led 42-38 at halftime, then put on another spurt to take a 50-38 lead. Detroit threatened several times after that but the Buckeyes slowed the pace in the last 5 minutes to deal the Titans their second loss in 7 games.

Charlie North led Detroit with 25 points, with John Morgan adding 16 and Larry Hughes 15.

BRUTON INKS TIGER PACT

Detroit (AP) — Bill Bruton, the Detroit Tigers new center-fielder, celebrated his 31st birthday Thursday by signing his contract for next season.

The veteran ex-National Leaguer is the 5th Tiger to sign for 1961.

Bruton was acquired by Detroit two weeks ago in a multi-player deal that sent second baseman Frank Bolling to the Milwaukee Braves.

St. Louis Wins Kentucky Meet

Nips Host In Overtime

Lexington, Ky. (AP) — Tom Kieffer of St. Louis fired a 15-foot one-handed shot with 4 seconds left in an overtime to defeat Kentucky 74-72 Thursday night and win the 8th annual University of Kentucky Invitational tournament.

The regulation time ended at 60-60, when Kieffer also fired through the basket that tied it with 8 seconds to go.

The 6-3 St. Louis junior and George Latinovich hit 7 and 5 points, respectively, in the extra period to more than match magnificent efforts by Kentucky's Billy Ray Lickert and Larry Pursiful.

In the 3rd place contest, California easily defeated Illinois 72-54.

The Billikens were hampered greatly by a knee injury received with 1:08 left in regular time by 6-10 Bevo Nordmann. Before that, Nordmann had hurt Kentucky consistently, scoring 18 points and causing 6-9 Ned Jennings to foul out with 4:52 left.

Kieffer led St. Louis scoring with 21 points. For Kentucky, Lickert scored 29 points, 7 in the overtime.

California's top scorer was Bill McClintock with 16. John Wessels of Illinois had 15.

With 10 seconds left in the overtime, Lickert hit a free throw to tie it 72-72. Kentucky got possession and apparently intended to hold for a final shot. However, Jim McDonald shot almost at once from the corner and missed. Kieffer then drove in for the winning bucket.

The Billikens dominated the early stages, building a 14-3 lead with 12:30 to go in the first half. However, led by Jennings and Lickert, Kentucky pulled to within 3 points at the half, 26-23.

Kentucky grabbed the lead for the first time with 8:36 to go at 40-38 on Vince Del Negro's two free throws after Jennings tied it. After that the score was tied 6 more times and the lead changed hands twice during regulation play.

'Unbeaten' Missouri Hopes To Make Middies 11th Victim

By Don Swanson
Columbia, Mo. (UPI)—Missouri's Tigers, boasting the first undefeated and untied record in the school's 70-year history, hope to make Navy their 11th victim of the season on Jan. 2 in the Orange Bowl.

Missouri enters the game with a 10-0 record and the Big Eight Conference championship, but the mark is a bit tarnished by the fact that one of the wins was by the forfeit route. Kansas defeated Missouri, 23-7, and won the conference title, only to lose both because of an ineligible player.

"This is one of the finest teams I have ever had the pleasure to coach," Missouri coach Dan Devine said. "We don't have any real outstanding boys on the squad, but they work well together as a unit."

The Tigers are led by half-back Mel West, an all-conference selection who gained 650 yards and ranks second among all-time Missouri rushers, and all-American end Danny LaRose. LaRose is the club's top pass receiver and handles all the punting chores.

Missouri has a versatile ball club. West and substitute halfback Norris Stevenson each gained better than 600 yards rushing; quarterback Ron Raylor completed more than half his passes; halfback Donnie Smith won the Big Eight Conference punt return and scoring championship; and Missouri boasts one of the country's best defenses (95.1 yards per game, rushing and passing).

"We are concerned about Navy's defensive line," Devine said. "We may be forced to pass, something we did little of during the regular season. Taylor, our No. 1 quarterback, threw only 44 passes all year, but he completed 23 of them for 302 yards."

The Missouri coach said sophomore Mike Hunter may spell Taylor if the Tigers are forced to go to the air.

"We kept Mike out all season because we wanted to save his eligibility for another year," Devine said. "Finally, in the Kansas game, we pressed him into action but it was too late. He ran with the ball twice and gained 12 yards. He's a good, long passer and should see quite a bit of action against Navy."

The Tigers also have been working on field goals in their practice sessions. Substitute fullback Bill Tobin is the club's kicking specialist. During the regular season he successfully kicked 30 of 33 extra point attempts and had 3 field goals, his 39 points being second on the team only to Smith's 78.

LaRose, guards Paul Henley and Paul Garvis, and tackle Rockne Calhoun are the mainstays in the Missouri defense. All were regulars on last year's Orange Bowl team which lost to Georgia 14-0.

This will be Missouri's 7th post-season bowl appearance, and the Tigers are still looking for their first win. They lost to Georgia Tech 21-7 in the 1939 Orange Bowl, bowed to Fordham 2-0 in the 1941 Sugar Bowl, dropped a 40-27 decision to Texas in the 1945 Cotton Bowl, lost to Clemson 24-33 in the 1948 Gator Bowl, were defeated by Maryland 20-7 in the 1949 Gator Bowl, and lost to Georgia last year.

DEVINE . . . Best Year

PLENTY OF PHEASANTS, STATE HUNTERS SCARCE

Hunters are harder to find than pheasants in Nebraska these days, reports to the Game Commission from its conservation officers suggested Thursday.

"This further proves that the longer pheasant season this year will not make one bit of difference, so far as pheasant populations are concerned," said Game Commission Director M. O. Steen.

"With our studies showing that 65 per cent of the total kill is taken during the first 10 days of the season, that leaves only 35 per cent of the harvest to be spread out over the rest of the season. If the last week of the 1960 hunt accounts for even 5% of the kill, this will be above our expectation."

Each little snowfall brings out a flurry of hunters, conservation officers reported.

"If we get two or three inches of snow on the ground, I look for pheasant hunting in this area (Dixon, Dakota and Cedar counties) to increase 5 times and for bigger bags to be taken," said Dick Furbey of Ponca.

Squirrel hunters were showing up, with one reporting to officer Raymond Frandsen of Humboldt that he and his two teen-age boys had taken more than 100 squirrels this season.

Fairbury Guard On National JC

Lincoln Star Special
Fairbury—For the second year in succession, Fairbury college is represented on the junior college All-American football squad.

The 22-player squad, announced from National Junior College Athletic association headquarters at Dodge City, Kas., lists Russell Nun of Ohioa, Bomber sophomore, as one of the guards.

Last year, Frank Elliott of Red Cloud, now attending Doane college, was selected at tackle on the squad.

Nun, who played most of the time this past season at tackle, had been on the FC team in a previous season, lettering at guard in 1958.

Two other Nebraskans were listed in the selections: Jerry Carothers of McCook was on the second team at guard, and Marvin Teel of McCook was given honorable mention at quarterback.

Even Higher Standards May Be Olympic Solution

By Steve Snider
New York (UPI)—Olympic officials the world over are agreed the games are too big and too costly but they can't agree on what to do about it.

After years of debate, they decided on a new course for Rome in 1960—to make it tougher to qualify—by setting a list of Olympic standards that had to be met if any nation wanted more than one contestant in a specific event.

That helped, but still more athletes from more nations vied for Olympic laurels at Rome last summer than in any previous Olympiad.

Other proposals rejected previously:

—Eliminate team sports such as soccer, field hockey and basketball.

—Eliminate women competitors.

—Shift normal winter sports such as basketball, boxing and wrestling to the Winter Olympics.

—Cut each nation to one entry per event.

—Eliminate fringe events or those that don't appeal to a larger proportion of competing nations such as walking, canoeing, Greco-Roman wrestling, etc.

But each of those moves met stiff resistance from nations who'd be hit by such cuts and, so far, all restrictions have failed except the qualifying standards put in for the first time this year.

A recent suggestion, reported by Avery Brundage of Chicago, was to bar previous Gold Medal winners from defending their Olympic titles 4 years later. The thought was it would help reduce professionalism.

In a sense it might do that by taking out of competition certain athletes subsidized by foreign governments for as long as they're capable of competing on a high plane. But it also would work against such real amateurs as two-time discus champ Al Oerter and other Yanks.

The real pro-minded Olympians, particularly the boxers, will turn professional while they're hot—after winning their first Gold Medal. Since efforts to eliminate certain events have failed, the best way to tighten up the entry list for the 1964 games at Tokyo probably would be an even higher set of qualifying standards.

Under this new system, an Olympic committee fixes a minimum performance standard for Olympic entry. All nations are allowed one contestant in each event but a nation that desires up to 3 must certify that all 3 have surpassed the minimum standard.

Thus, the U.S., with hot performers in several events, was able to score a 1-2-3 sweep in the Olympic high hurdles, 400 meter hurdles, the shot put and discus. However, we had only one man in the 10,000 meter run. He was Max Truex, who finished 6th—18 seconds behind the winner—but in the new American citizen record time of 28:50.2.

The 10,000 simply isn't our dish and there was no point in cluttering up the field with two other tryers with no chance to win.

Restricting entries to one for each event would be too tough to swallow for the top scorers like the U.S., Russia and Germany.

Making it tougher to qualify 3 men is about the only move that'll satisfy the most.

North-South Teams Polish For Monday

... SOUTH STARTERS SELECTED

Miami, Fla. (AP)—With only two more days of practice remaining, the North and South teams concentrated Thursday on perfecting the comparatively few plays they will use against each other in the all-star football game in the Orange Bowl Monday night. The North took time out to elect co-captains for the contest. Mike Stock of Northwestern was chosen offensive captain and Jerry Smith, Michigan center, will be the leader when the defensive team is on the field.

The rival squads showed astonishing smoothness in running off plays, considering the brief time the players have been together.

Cool weather Thursday was a boon to the athletes, although Dale Hall, Army coach who with Michigan's Bump Elliott is coaching the North team, was apprehensive that a possible warm spell by Monday night would be a handicap to his players.

The South's No. 1 lineup began to take shape. Coaches Paul Bryant of Alabama and Darrell Royal of Texas had Howard Dyer of VMI at quarterback, Bobby Noy of Vanderbilt at full, and Don Kern of VMI and Bud Whitehead of Florida State at the halves.

The line consisted of Gerald Burch of Georgia Tech and John Schroeder of North Carolina, ends; Charles Linn of Miami and John O'Day of Houston and Alvin Dalton of SMU, guards, and Bob Hariere of George Washington, center.

A Lincoln County district court decision holding unconstitutional the 1959 state zoning law for first-class cities was appealed to the Nebraska Supreme Court Thursday.

The appeal was filed by the city of North Platte after District Judge John H. Kuhns found unconstitutional the law which authorizes the cities to extend their zoning jurisdiction one mile beyond their corporate limits.

He also declared invalid a North Platte ordinance, enacted under the law, which limited the land within the one-mile area around the city to certain uses.

First-class cities are those with populations of 5,000 to 40,000, of which there are nearly 20 in Nebraska.

Judge Kuhns reached his decision in a case against the city of North Platte and its officials by Otto Schlientz, the owner of property outside the city but within the zone.

According to the city's brief filed Thursday, Schlientz owns a 3-bedroom house, a two-bedroom house, two quonset buildings and other small buildings on the site.

He said the improvements are used in his agricultural and animal husbandry business, but the ordinance prohibits him from changing them or the mode of his business without first obtaining authorization.

The area in which his property is located was zoned as class A residential.

Schlientz said the zoning decision is a "prejudicial damage" to the value of his property.

The city's attorneys said the state law is "in keeping with the times. A necessity in our present civilization and its ever changing conditions."

The city maintained that in the process of zoning land, the things related to the public good are for determination by the zoning authority, and in the absence of violation of law or unreasonable or arbitrary action, the zoning authorities should be allowed control.

Interstate Access Cost Estimates Ready Soon

By Virgil Falloon
Acting State Engineer John Hossack said Thursday that cost estimates on possible Interstate access routes for Lincoln will be ready for the Jan. 23 meeting of the State Highway Advisory Commission.

Five possible access routes to downtown Lincoln are under study, including the route suggested by the University of Nebraska and the so-called "farther west" route most recently developed by the highway department.

The latter route, which would swing the northbound leg (North 10th) of the access route away from the university campus and also avoid high-value business properties, would involve some relocation of railroad trackage.

Hossack said preliminary location plans of this route with an alternative has been submitted to the Missouri Pacific railroad for study and comment.

Similar conferences with Chicago and Northwestern Railroad representatives are expected to be held after the holidays, he said.

Hossack said preliminary contact with the Missouri Pacific has been favorable.

He said the railroad would study both the commercial as well as the operational effects of track relocation.

"We hope to have a pretty fair analysis of the various routes for the Jan. 23 meeting," he said, "and definite comments from the railroads as to feasibility on the one involving them."

The trackage involved is several spur tracks serving business concerns west of 9th.

While the "farther west" route would involve more grade separation structures to cross the trackage, engineering sources indicate this could be more than offset by favorable right-of-way costs.

The University of Nebraska had objected to the closeness to the campus of the state-proposed access connection, but the highway department indicated the higher cost of the University-suggested route would not gain federal approval.

The "farther west" route, if found to be feasible, would overcome these objections.

C. A. Donaldson, NU business manager, said the route would be favorable to the university and expressed hope it can be worked out.

Thirty Lucky Dogs To Get Homes As Christmas Gifts

Thirty lucky Lincolniters are going to receive soft, warm and live presents this year for Christmas.

The Humane Society reports that so far, 30 puppies have been purchased for Christmas presents.

In fact, one puppy was to a 74-year-old lady in Texas for a Christmas gift.

But starting Friday morning, the puppies will be all decked out with bright red ribbons for collars when they are sent to their new owners.

And on Christmas Eve, the Humane Society will provide a puppy-delivering service for three hours, so the puppies will arrive after the youngsters are all tucked in.

Admiral Says Carrier Blaze Serious Blow To Defense

New York (UPI) — Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of Naval operations stood on the burned-out hangar deck of the air craft carrier Constellation and said that the fire that swept the vessel from stem to stern was a serious blow to the defense effort.

Burke came here from Washington to inspect the damage to the unfinished $250 million carrier and officiate at memorial services for the 49 civilian workers who were killed in the flash fire on Monday.

Construction of the vessel in the Brooklyn Navy Yard had been 85% completed. The fire damage was estimated at $75 million and it was expected to delay completion of the ship at least a year.

A Long Time

"This fire is a serious blow," Burke said, "but not a fatal blow to the defense effort. It will take a lot of study and good engineering plus finding out to determine how long it will be before the Constellation becomes a fighting ship.

"I can't tell now how long it will take to get vital parts such as electronic components which were destroyed."

Burke said the carrier was badly burned, but not as badly as he had feared.

During and after Burke's tour of the vessel, cleaning up operations were underway
